U. S. INT. REVENUE COLLECTOR'S OFFICE,
ASHTABULA, April 25th, 1879.
Revenue Stamp.—The Internal Revenue Department has constituted this office a depository for the sale of stamps. A complete assortment both general and proprietary, will be kept on hand at all times, and a liberal discount allowed to those who purchase in quantities. HENRY FASSETT, Collector.

Sellite Powders, "sure pop," for sale at Swift's.

The foundation for A. H. TYLER'S new store is laid, and the material—brick and lumber—are being delivered, so that there will probably be little delay in carrying up the walls and adding another ornament, as well as evidence of thrift to our village.

THE TRIMMING OF BUSINESS is entered upon with considerable promptness by the village authorities and our citizens. The work upon the north Park cutting the grass and cutting out the walks, is giving it a very tidy look. The new walk being laid on the Southern side, is decided improvement upon the manner of building wood walks heretofore generally practiced. The luxuriant growth of grass and weeds upon the road sides are disappearing and a very commendable spirit is shown to increase the order and tastefulness of the village.

STOP WATCHES, showing seconds and quarters, just the thing for timing our fast horses, are to be found at DICKINSON'S.

HARSH IMPROVEMENTS are taking on a rather new feature, and perhaps a more decidedly effective one. The Messrs. DODGE are about beginning the work of throwing up the firmer strata of the shale, by aid of powder. This subterranean blasting is a new and somewhat curious process for this region, and will no doubt attract some attention. The process, is, however, a simple one, and will no doubt very much facilitate the work of excavation. The job of preparing the tubes has been secured by Messrs. MAX & NOYER, and will afford considerable labor to their establishment.

A STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL will be held at the basement of the M. E. Church, on Friday evening of next week.

As an aid to indigestion and a cut-short to dyspepsia, the strawberry short-cake is probably excelled by none and equalled by few of the many ingenious devices of the Yankee kitchen. It is as delicious as it is wholesome; and thus deserves all the praise which its votaries give it. It is advertised and sold at every restaurant in New York; and there is reason to believe that, brief as is the strawberry season, the short-cake of a single June, manufactured in New York alone, would, if piled together, form a monument higher than that of Bunker Hill, or that of Washington will be in the year 2070.

GRAND PHOTOGRAPHIC Exhibition is now open at the Central Risk, Cleveland, having begun on the 7th inst. Photographers and artists from all parts of the world, are in attendance.

THE SNAKE STORY told by PARSON HALL, is added to by one of our oldest citizens. He says that a number of the snakes that were unearthed, were put into a barrel in a frozen, or torpid state, and taken home to his log house on the site now occupied by TIMOTHY SROOG, or Mr. SWEET, that they might be seen, and possibly admired. They were taken into the house, where the atmosphere in the course of the night ameliorated their condition, and they began a survey of the premises. In the morning a formidable old rattler had curled up on the bed along side of Mr. Sweet, and another had found a more elevated position on the clock mantle. This was a freedom not at all pleasing, and the dispatch of the reptiles, became an ante-breakfast amusement.

To "murder the innocents," buy a sheet of Lightning Fly Paper, at Swift's.

MEMORIAL SPEECHES.—Our thanks are tendered to GEN. GARFIELD, for a copy of memorial addresses upon the occasion of the death of Senator FESSENDEN. There is a peculiar interest about these addresses that renders them very pleasant reading. They are usually evidences of the scholarship and belles lettres attainments of our leading statesmen, thoughtfully and considerably put forth under circumstances calculated to subdue the feelings, when tenderness and pathos seem the fitting humors of the occasion, when heart and intellect blend, and purity of style and elegance of diction combine to make these productions valuable beyond the historical and biographical information connected with the life and mission of the deceased, they supply. Then they are put up in style of printing and binding, that fit them for place upon the centre table, and entitle them to a permanent and cherished place in the library.

Cream Tartar that is really pure is a scarce article, but you can obtain it at Swift's Drug store.

LAST WEEK, Evander Spencer, of Lenox, was arrested by the U. S. Marshal, at the instance of E. F. Baldwin, Special mail agent, on charge of violating the postal laws. His offence consisted in placing a letter in a newspaper, and sending it at newspaper rates. The fine and costs amounted to nearly $150, a part of which was remitted, as Mr. Spencer pleaded guilty, and through ignorance of the law. The department is determined to press vigorously all violations of the postal law. This was intended as an example.

THE claphorns upon the house of A. H. TRACY, of Plymouth, were fired in an unusual and somewhat singular manner, the other day. His bright new milk can, with convex bottom, had been set out after cleaning, as to bring the rays of the sun into a focus upon the house, and a fire was the result, which, however, was discovered, and easily extinguished.

FIRST.—With this issue closes the History of Ashtabula Township, by the late Rev. JOHN HALL, down to and including the year 1877. We had hoped and expected to supplement these records by such contributions as to make the history of the township complete to the present time, but have been disappointed in this, and shall, therefore, leave the subject for the present and take up the "Early Times of Jefferson," by our late respected fellow-citizen, Hon. JONATHAN WARNER. Our readers will find much in these sketches to instruct and amuse. We shall commence the publication of them in the first issue of July.

General Times.

The closing number may be looked for, therefore, in our next.

THE propeller Dubuque, Captain A. M. Mann, on her passage down Lake Erie, sprang a leak of Long Point. When on Grand River the water had reached the fire, and she was compelled to jetison about 12m staves, consigned to Buffalo parties. After unloading, the Dubuque goes into dry dock.

Horse Fair.—There will be one of the most attractive exhibitions ever held in Northern Ohio, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 20th, and July 1st and 2nd, on the splendid Fair Grounds in Ashtabula, Ohio. The very fine track has been put in the very best possible condition, and every thing that can, will be done by the officers to make the show an eminent success, and there is every reason to believe that the show of Horses will be one of the grandest ever held in this region.

The extremely liberal Purse of Twelve Hundred Dollars is offered in premiums.

The vigorous aim of the Board of officers is, and will continue to be, to have all objectionable features removed, so that all classes of citizens may properly attend and sustain the same. J. P. JENNINGS, Sec'y, SW1007.

Will each and all of this County please copy the above notice for three weeks, and send bill for same to Secretary, and it will be paid promptly.

ELECTION OF DIRECTORS.—Smith's Hall was filled on Thursday afternoon, by the stock holders of the A. Y. and Pittsburgh Railroad Company, drawn together for the purpose of electing directors for said Company. It was presided over by L. M. AUSTIN, of Ashtabula, and Messrs. K. H. FRENCH and H. FASSETT acted as Secretaries. Gentlemen were present from Pittsburgh, and the interests of Youngstown were duly represented. The meeting was not only a full, but enthusiastic one, and imparted much encouragement and confidence to the friends of the enterprise. The first movement was initiated by H. L. MORRISON, and was immediately successful to make the subscription an even $100,000. Mr. McCREARY, President of the Lawrence Branch road, moved the appointment of a committee for the nomination of 13 directors, and that committee reported among others, the names of Gen. G. W. CASS, Pres't of the Pitts. & Fort Wayne Co., W. P. SHINN, general freight agent of the same, A. L. CHAFFORD, President of the New Castle & Beaver Valley road, & W. HARRISON, Director of the Lawrence Branch, among the number, who were duly elected. These names upon the board, are significant, and foreshadow success to the enterprise.

Lateness of the hour forbids further remarks at this time, but the full report of the proceedings of the meeting are to be in readiness by the secretaries for this paper.

Having failed to receive an official report, as promised, from the Secretaries, a full list of Directors is annexed:

G. W. CASS, W. HARRISON, W. P. SHINN, A. L. CHAFFORD, J. R. CHAFFORD, C. B. WICK, F. HARRINGTON, R. C. NEWELL, J. D. HUBBERT, HENRY HUBBERT, BENJ. L. MORRISON, AMOS C. FINE.

Our Painesville friends are not a little exercised over the tardiness of their railroad subscription, and the Telegraph, in view of a fizzle proposes a migration to Ashtabula. Our contemporary should have remembered that we told it some time since, that "Painesville was a one-horse town and couldn't build a railroad."

WEAT, on every hand, where not killed out by the winter, is said to be unusually forward and promising. The great consideration of the early heading of this grain, before the 10th of June, in order to get in advance of the insect, is this season realized, as the crop is not only fully headed, but in bloom, and farmers take encouragement that freedom from this pest, gives promise of good grain as well as a plentiful crop.

SMITH'S HALL, we learn, is to be overhauled and materially extended. Some thirty feet are to be added to its rear, and a spacious stage, or platform, with adjacent rooms for dressing purposes, and to be subjected to a general improvement and decoration. Our friend Smith seems determined to do his part towards the building up and improvement of the place.

SCOTCH and American Hollands can be found at DICK'S.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION AND TICKET.—June 1st the Democratic State Convention assembled at Columbus and put in nomination a State ticket. A Columbus dispatch to the Cincinnati Enquirer says it was the most thinly attended Democratic State Convention that has been held for years.

Lewis D. Campbell, of Butler County was elected President.

Hon. Luther L. Brown, of Charlestown, Portage County, was one of the Vice Presidents.

Harvey Baldwin, Esq., of Streetsboro, Portage County, was a member of the Committee to select a State Central Committee.

Mr. Campbell, the apostate Republican, with the zeal of a neophyte abused the Republican party, and endeavored the Democracy.

The following ticket was put in nomination: Secretary of State—William Heisley, of Cleveland.

Judge of Supreme Court—Richard Hamlin, of London.

Controller of the Treasury—John H. Heaton, of Belmont County.

Board of Public Works—Wm. Spencer, of Licking County.

GRAND INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.—The General Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, Board of Trade and Ohio Mechanics' Institute, of Cincinnati, announce that a Grand Industrial Exposition of manufactures, products and arts, will be held in Cincinnati, beginning Wednesday, Sept. 21st, and continuing until Oct. 13th, 1879, to which Artisans, Manufacturers, Inventors and all engaged in the production of works of art and ingenuity are invited to contribute.

Ample preparations have been made for the exhibition of machinery in operation, for the prominent display of manufactures, works of art and products, and also for the general convenience of exhibitors.

Arrangements are being made for the cheap transportation of articles for exhibition from all parts of the country, and for their removal from the depots and wharves in that city to the place of exhibition with safety and at low rates.

Circulars containing full and specific information relating to the Exposition may be obtained by addressing "Cincinnati Industrial Exposition," Cincinnati.

Editor Telegraph.—Will you allow a stranger in Ashtabula the privilege of mentioning in your paper—which, by the way, we in Cleveland have the habit of considering one of the best county papers in the State—the pleasure that he had on Wednesday morning of visiting the High School and hearing the recitation of Mr. Clemens' class in Caesar? I last week heard the recitation of the corresponding class in the Painesville School, than which there is probably no better High School in the State. I much admired their accurate, discriminating drill and the proficiency of the pupils, and must own to a little astonishment at finding results equally perfect in a school so much less known to fame as is the Ashtabula High School.

The people of Ashtabula should be, and I presume, are, proud of their High School—should prize it at home, speak well of it abroad, cherish a feeling of personal ownership in it and of responsibility for its permanent success, and by so doing sustain in its teachers that high enthusiasm which is the very life-blood of a school. CLEVELAND.

TAKING THE CENSUS.—Correctness in the results of the census, upon the taking of which the Marshals of the United States and their assistants have now entered, is a matter of such great importance, and of so much interest to us all, that every citizen ought to feel a disposition to facilitate and assist the work by every possible means. The questions to be answered for every person (the name of each to be given) whose place of abode on the first day of June was in the family making the return are as follows:

Age at last birthday?
Sex?
Color?
Occupation?
Personal estate?
Real estate?
Birthplace?
Birth of father?
Birth of mother?
Month of birth of child under one year?
Month of marriage, if married within the year?
Attended school within the year?
Can read?
Can write?
Deaf and dumb?
Blind, insane, idiotic?
Citizens of the United States, 21 years of age or upwards?
Denied right to vote on other grounds than for rebellion or other crime?

In addition to the above, the name of every person who died during the year, whose place of abode at the time of death was in the family, needs to be given, with a statement of the age of the deceased at last birthday, sex, color, married or single, or widowed, place of birth, nationality of father and mother, month of death, occupation, and disease or cause of death.

There are three other schedules, in respect to agriculture, manufactures, etc., and social statistics, but the facts in these will have to be gathered by the marshals according to their instructions. The inquiries stated above are the ones for which each family ought to prepare answers before the census officer calls upon them, adding by the way, the number of books belonging to the family, if it has any library.

H. H. SHAYLON, of the Commercial College, at Portland, Me., has been engaged as a teacher of penmanship for the High and Grammar Schools, at that place, at a salary of $1000. The Spencerian system of writing is to be used in preference to any other course.

A PORTUGUESE ROMANCE.—A correspondent from Garrettsville furnishes the Portuguese County Democrat with the following romantic story. The family name of the part is alluded to is French:

A story of real life, shrouded somewhat in romance, runs in this wise: About thirty-three years ago, a young lady about fifteen years of age, beautiful and accomplished, and especially noted for her musical talent—for she could sing like a bird—was wooed and won by a young mechanic, who was also a noted singer. The union did not prove harmonious, and after an existence of about six months, the young wife returned to her parental roof for support and protection. A committee was selected to confer with the estranged parties.

One of the committees was the Hon. D. R. Tilden, of Cleveland. The committee effected nothing in the way of reconciliation. The husband went his way. A divorce was obtained, but I have not been advised which was the complaining party. A son was born, in whom the pride of the mother was centred more and more as he grew from infancy to childhood, and from childhood to manhood, for she was in him rewarded more than mothers generally are. The father married again, and reared a family of children. His name often appears in print, for he is an author of music and a singer of note. More than thirty years have dragged their crooked lengths along, and disappear behind eternity's veil. During all this time, I believe the actors in this drama met not; but strange things do happen. The second wife sickened and died; after a while the husband sickened, and, as he lay upon his bed, uncertain of the future, memory called up the past in long review; some little wrongs may have vexed his conscience, but at all events he longed to see her around whose life he had wondrously wrapped the dark mantle. Efforts were made to get her by his bedside; they were successful, a reconciliation was effected and she administered to him during his indisposition. When sufficiently convalescent, together they visited her old home, kindly words were spoken, the dark past forgotten, assurances of fealty in the future made, and again the hand was promised. Last night, May 5th, they were married—the life journey, so early begun, so soon disconnected, was commenced anew.

Information received in Washington through letters from Minister Bancroft shows that Chieh, one of the Chinese Commissioners accompanying Mr. Burlingame in this country, has succeeded to the direction of the Legation. This, therefore, disposes of the statement that Mr. J. McLeary Brown had been appointed as the successor of the lamented Burlingame.

THE APPLE CROP is more promising than for years, and the young fruit is in a state of great forwardness.

HURT.—Mr. E. Woodworth was severely injured on Saturday last while attempting to catch a sheep. The sheep was running past him, and as he attempted to grab it, in turning sprained his hip at the same time lacerating the muscles of his leg in a manner that entirely deprives him of the use of it. Mr. W. was carried to his house in an entirely helpless condition, suffering the most intense pain.

The House appropriation Committee ascertained that the increase of salaries of United States Judges and others provided for in the Legislative Appropriation bill will increase the expenditures over $300,000 per annum.

TUE N. Y. Tribune succinctly comments on the Ohio Democratic platform thus: "The Democracy of Ohio yesterday nominated a ticket for State officers and adopted a platform, in which they furnish much valuable information as to their opinions of the proper construction of the Constitution of the United States; and give their approval to that portion of the Declaration of Independence 'which makes ours the land of liberty and the asylum for the oppressed of all nations.' They also make the rather startling announcement that this idea has ever been one of the cardinal principles of the Democratic party. About four millions of the 'oppressed' would have been glad to have known that several years ago, instead of advocating the repudiation of the Public Debt, openly as the Democracy of Oregon do, and as a large part of the Democracy of the 13th District of Ohio did in the contest for Congress, they propose to produce the same effect by substantially recommending the repeal of the Tariff and the Internal Revenue Laws, thus leaving the Government without the means for paying its honest debts. Of course the convention was opened to the enforcement of the XVth Amendment, most Democrats are, we believe."

Mr. Anderson's Column.

About our Infirmary.

NUMBER THREE.

Two things pained me in my view of this institution: one was that there were any inmates there at all, and the other was the condition of the children. Both these, poor, helpless irresponsible,—should be cared for elsewhere and differently.

A new mode of taking care of children is being opened in the Institutions created for Soldier's Orphans. It will, I do not doubt, and I most earnestly hope, become a model for the conducting of all Orphan Asylums and Retreats. Even the boys and girls of our Ohio State Reform School are being treated in much the same way. This mode involves the principle of making the children forget that they are under a ban on account of poverty or vice, (two sins of equal magnitude in the eyes of Society,—God forgive us,—

"Homes and dimes
An empty pocket
Is the worst of crimes,"
and a lifting them up to a feeling of manliness and womanliness, and of honor.
Nice, cozy houses are built for them (where there are enough to make more than one family), and each one is given a sense of responsibility. There is a matron or teacher for each fifty or so,—among the Reform School boys one of their own number (called an elder-brother), takes this place, a sort of ticket-leave boy,—and the little folk are made to understand that they are some body.

You miss in their faces the crafty, cringing, hang-dog look that is the outer index of what will one day be sin. They don't look as if they had been stealing,—a look that leads on to a fact.

Now at our Infirmary the children are all among the grown people, just put in biggled-piggled, where they can become experts in all the ways of crime that the older ones know, (and it would be a wonder if all the inmates of the Infirmary were models of virtue,—where they can be taught all sorts of secret vices,—the boys trained to evil courses, and the girls imbibing first principles that lead to prostitution and sin.

We owe it to society that we do more than merely feed, and clothe, and house these children.

I think it is Mr. Greenwood who says that "seven years good schooling at four dollars a term will cost less than the sheriff's bill for hanging a man. And this hanging is but the last item in a long bill of expenses, for the arrest, trial, support, etc., of the malefactor, not counting the loss of life. And few if any cases can be found in which seven years of good schooling and death by the halter have met in one and the same party."

Another writer says, "The tax which an ignorant or vicious boy or girl imposes on the community will amount oftentimes to an hundred fold the expenses of a thorough, wholesome education, beginning at two years of age and ending at twenty."

Dr. Edward N. Kirk, among innumerable beautiful and striking thoughts, has three that I want to give you.

"One test of perfect manhood is the estimate it sets upon children. The man who looks at them as toys, who is not flowers sent from heaven given to adorn our garden walks, and perfume the air of our dwellings, for a few days, and then pass into non-existence. Within each one of these frames dwells an immortal spirit, a subject of God's moral government."

"We know of no loftier object of vision than the face of a healthy child. The evil passions have as yet left no trace of their power, and care and anxiety have distorted no line of beauty; selfishness has given no repulsive expression to any movement of its delicate organs. But probably that peculiar loveliness of expression depends most upon simplicity of character, as contrasted with either complexity or duplicity."

Now all this holds as true in regard to the poorest, sorriest child, as of yours or mine. The blight that is given by wicked parents who send their evil passions into their children as a hellish inheritance, only makes the children the more objects of care and pity; if, perhaps the evil may be done away, and the noxious influence be all owed to go no further.

The report of the B. Board of State Charities for 1869, gives to Ashtabula Co., 140 paupers, of whom 18 are insane and 20 children, (10 boys, and 10 girls), the insane, to be there, must be those who are called incurable, [of whom I want to speak hereafter], and the children are coming up to be men and women,—fathers and mothers,—voters, and the mothers of voters,—educators of people for our (or some other) country.

Now it is for us of this county to ask ourselves the question, whether or not, (having a model Infirmary,) we may not inaugurate a new system in relation to our pauper children, whereby they may be brought up into useful,—valuable—members of society. The cost will be something, but in the long run a good investment.

In a former article I suggested that the laundry building be enlarged so as to admit of school room and dormitory. On a careful examination of reports from the Reform Farm, House of Refuge of Cincinnati, Reform School for Girls, Asylum for Idiots and Imbecile youth, and other kindred works, (for which I am indebted to my friend Mr. Hayward, Representative from Monroe,) I am convinced that a neat cottage building erected on the grounds at a suitable distance from the main building,—(or even the Laundry building enlarged;—with the yard in the rear, and the old carpenter excluded,—) provided with school room and apparatus, a good motherly matron and teacher, and a separate table from the one in the main house, would secure the object that seems to be so desirable.

If these children have evil tendencies they need so much the more care. If they are to live they must be prepared to live and be useful. As they are, they are growing up to be pests to society, and subjects for public care, either in almshouses or penitentiaries.

I happened to speak of this matter to a stinging old man a few days ago, and he said, "It will cost the County a good deal, and then may be they would go away when they get grown for what it had spent on them."—As the old man said it he wiped his nose on the back of his hand.

Perhaps there are other just such people in our County (though I don't believe it,) and I would say to them as I did to him, "May be your children will, too,—But won't you educate them, and spend money on them?"

The old man looked at me with the vacant eyes of thoroughly surprised man. I don't suppose he had ever dreamed of spending money for educating his children,—at least I shouldn't suppose so from the looks of them.

I hope the time will come when there will be a radical reform in the care of our forsaken children, all over the land. The wicked children are cared for most admirably. Mr. Howe is doing a wonderful work at the Reform Farm. But must it be that a poor child be brought under safe influence? Can't a good poor child get as good teaching as a bad poor child?

Let us as a County take hold of this matter, and set the example to the rest of Ohio, of a nice, well conducted place for the education of our pauper children, so they may come out well fitted for a useful life. Let us model on the Soldier's Orphan Home of Iowa, Wisconsin, and Pennsylvania. Let us instruct our Commissioners to use money for it. They are good men, humane, judicious. The result will be for the convincing us that money so expended has been well invested.

SCROFULA CURED BY BRANDER'S PILLS.—BRANDER'S PILLS penetrate the whole mass of blood, raising the expulsion of impurities. The body feels relieved from a single dose; what then may be expected from twenty? By continuing their use, the whole of the blood in time, becomes purified, and the body reconstructed from good material, and a new lease of life secured.

My Dear Sir, My daughter Alice, thirteen years old, has been completely cured of that horrible disease, Scrofula, which for years rendered life a torment; after all medicines and many physicians had been tried, and failed, I commenced giving her your pills. She took them almost every day for three months, constantly improving. She has now entirely recovered.
